Lilium Philippinense Formosanum

ALSO KNOWN AS THE DREAM LILY

This new and eminently beautiful lily cannot fail to become a sensation for decorative as well as commercial purposes. The flower resembles the Easter lily in shape, is graceful, and clear white, except for a faint brown lavender tinge on the outside of each petal. The fragrance is delightful, neither strong nor offensive. Long graceful dark green leaves cover the sturdy stem densely.

The most valuable feature of this lily, however, is the long, late, constant flowering season. It is in bloom when most of the other garden flowers are about through. In August it begins to send out flower spikes and continues until hard frosts stops them.

Well grown plants attain a height of five to seven feet, carrying ten to twenty blooms to the stalk. Lilium Philippinense Formosanum has wonderful forcing qualities and should be of great interest to florists for pot culture. It forces into flower easily. Since it will come pure white under glass, the stems sturdier with more graceful foliage than the longiflorum, growers should not overlook this fine lily as an Easter possibility.
